

CUBA UPDATE

(from a missionary in Cuba to Jack and Carolyn Brakebill)

Blessings dear Jack.

We are in good health here. Havana closed again because there was a major outbreak of coronavirus. From the first of September we will have a kind of curfew. Nobody will be able to walk in the streets between 7pm and 5am, nobody will be able to enter or leave the city, you can only buy food in your neighborhood and you will not be able to do it in others unless you have USD. Meetings may not be held even in homes with people outside the family. As you can see, the situation is very complicated, especially since buying food and cleaning becomes increasingly difficult and expensive. But we remain steadfast and confident in the Lord. I keep attending to the siblings by making weekly visits or by phone. Please keep your prayers for us, but above all for the government to take measures according to the needs of the people, and may the Lord allow us to continue serving the needs of our neighbors with what we have and we can also share them the Gospel. A hug to Caro.

God bless you
